SEWING MACHINES
ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION
—AND—
Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction and easily kept in order; should make a tenacious stitch, alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin with rapidity, and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the tension greater or less on both the under and upper threads and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle; curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer, embroider, fell, run and gather, and always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work and of using different colored thread or silk, above and below to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch and to run easily, and make but little noise

It should have a wheel feed, no others are in constant contact with the work

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw driver or wrench to set the needle

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, nor ravel

The undersigned are General Agents for the general supervision of these invaluable machines for Pacific States and Western Coast of Mexico.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

No flag but the Old Flag—the Red White and Blue,
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it! ye sons of the brave
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 19, 1862

The next Election.

In all countries, where the existing form of government is at all endurable, loyalty is counted a virtue; but in a government like yours, where every citizen is a peer, and the governed are the governors, loyalty is not only a virtue, but a duty, and patriotism should be really a matter of conscience as much as the rendering of justice to a fellow or the making of provision against want for one's family. Every member of a Republic has virtually pledged himself with the other members of that Republic to keep it inviolate, but aside from the moral obligation of this social compact, every one who has been the recipient of the blessings conferred by this mutual protection association, ought so to love it as to be willing to beg for its sustenance or die for its integrity, that being sustained in its integrity the great human family may not be debarred of their natural rights, or that the status of man be not reduced to that low level in which only earth born lords or tyrants, hedged about by the divinity of superstition, are fit to rule! Shame! Shame upon him who in this hour of our common tribulation whines "submission rather than expense," or "life rather than liberty." And eternal ignominy to that man who trembles at every alternative except that of national dishonor and the debasement of man to a creature fit only to be enslaved!

Another thing of which you will hear much between now and the ides of June, is the charge of corruption against persons high and low in places of trust under the present administration and against that administration itself. Authenticated instances of great swindles will be cited for your edification and instruction, but more especially for the purpose of producing the impression in your minds, that all of this dishonesty has been the object rather than an unavoidable and lamentable incident of the war. Certain very shrewd, but very impure politicians have a peculiar partiality to that overgrown species of hyperbole which seizes upon a little truth and spreads it out so thin over a great deal of base falsehood, that they too often succeed in getting people to believe exactly what they want them to believe. Very plausible statements of this character are already afloat, and the enemies of your institutions are continually racking their invention for great changes and distorting fresh facts to substantiate the charge of corruption upon the men who honestly desire nothing so much as that economical use of the people's means for the restoration of the people's Union In the piping times of peace and flush prosperity, there was some excuse for that man, who would make, what in mercantile phrase, has been called a "handsome thing," out of a Government contract, but there is no invective, no epithet, or no punishment too severe for him, who taking advantage of the urgent and necessitous condition of his country, would, with an eye single to self, swindle that country in a business transaction Yet this has been done, and probably has been done oftener than the public even heard of, there are in times of bustling preparation and imperative need like the present, so many chances for the villains to escape detection, exposure and punishment Those are lamentable and condemnable facts but they do not prove that corruption is the object of this war, or that your Constitutionally chosen President with his constitutionally appointed advisers, are parties to that corruption; they only carry out the parallel of history and re-corroborate a trait in human nature, it seems to be a law in the eternal constitution of things that one man in every so many must be a villain—Jesus Christ had his Judas Iscariot—Washington his Benedict Arnold—and why not President Lincoln, in an immense army, navy and civil force, of which by the laws of the country he is the head, have men holding his commissions in their hands who are the veriest villains unhung. If, however, you are determined to look at this matter through the glasses of prejudice and from old political stand points, nothing could convince you that there are honest men out of your own party, or that it were possible for disinterested motives to actuate any but men of your own way of thinking But if you are willing to admit the necessity and the duty of every citizen exercising the most impartial examination before exercising his prerogative of voting upon an important issues, the facts proving or disproving the charge of corruption are accessible and can be freely and readily discussed

Citizens of Oregon! citizens of the United States of America! be exhorted, be persuaded not to be found at the June election clinging to the skirts of any old political fogies, but stride out with manliness into the realm of thought and masticate facts and ideas until you can determine impartially your duties as men, without waiting until the process of lactation, supplied by these ancient political hags, has robbed your natural food of its original taste and flavor

"I Love the Union but I Love the South Better"

North Carolina papers published a letter from J. C Breckinridge during the last Presidential canvass, which contained this declaration His supporters here declared that the letter was a forgery The proof is now at hand, that while he was a candidate for President of the United States, he wished the people of the South to understand, that "he loved the South better than the Union"—Like our secesh here, "he sympathized with the South," and we have no doubt he has since prayed as heartily as the Advertiser ever did, that "the arms of the Union should be paralyzed"

On board the rebel flag ship captured near Elizabeth City, among other letters, was one from J C Breckinridge, in his own hand writing, containing the remark we have quoted The letter of Breckinridge was in perfect keeping with his general character—now fully developed; and he was a proper leader of the Lane party in Oregon

The Kanawha Valley, in Virginia, is in a desolate condition The Wheeling Intelligencer says

"Wise came among the people as a besom of devastation He literally laid bare the country all around him His worthless promises to pay are left widespread among the people, but, alas! their corn, wheat, their oats, their hay, their bacon, their all is gone—to be heard of more He took horses, mules, and wagons, and impressed them in his service, both as he came and as he left He paid for nothing"

And this is the history of the doings of the rebels wherever they move Everywhere they rob friends and foes, giving to their friends in exchange for their produce worthless promises to pay and giving to their foes—nothing, and perhaps in this they have treated friends worse than foes, for, in the latter, they have at least not added mockery to robbery

RIGHT!—The Olympia Overland Press—democratic but not a sympathizer in the rebellion—in speaking of the late Federal victories, says

"Out of this contest we will come triumphant. The Federal Union will be stronger for the ordeal to which it has been subjected State sovereignty and State rights, terms so grossly perverted and fraught with evil, will be discarded. The United States of America will yet take their place first among the nations of the earth Our flag will be respected—peace and prosperity will bless the land"

The Advertiser denies that its editor recommended prayers that the "national arms should be paralyzed" The Advertiser does not deny that the expression appeared in that paper, and though the editor's attention was called to it, time and again, he refused to disavow the offensive remark, and, as a matter of course, under such circumstances, he indorsed it Too late, Mr Advertiser, to withdraw this evidence of your treason—altogether too late

The Memphis Avalanche of February 25th, speaks thus of Gen McClellan "The indications seem to be that Gen McClellan is showing himself capable of vast combinations and to have the power possessed by few—the skillful management of a vast army It is useless to delude or cheat ourselves. We have a powerful enemy to meet, great in numbers, with selected and brave and experienced commanders McClellan has been purifying the command, dismissing weak and incompetent men and now he has a well-appointed command, his soldiers well drilled, brave and gallant"

The Richmond tobacco houses were on the 19th of February cleared of all Union prisoners When the prisoners got up, not long before leaving, the play of Rob Roy, for their mutual entertainment, with room to lie on the floor nearest the stage carfully set aside for the sick who were able to stagger in from the hospital The manuscript programme thus announced the fact "Front seats reserved for cripples"

A writer in the Portland Advertiser says that Lincoln is the last President of the United States Whether we are to come under John Bull's monarchy or Jeff Davis's despotism, the prophet saith not —Overland Press

The British regiments designated for service in Canada are those which rarely recruit in Ireland, being known in the service as "English regiments," from the fact that they always have very few Irish or Scotchmen on their muster rolls

Brigadier General Schoepff was, some years ago, a porter in a New York hotel By industry and integrity he rose from that humble position to his present eminence

Secretary Stanton has given leave to newspaper correspondents to follow the army This fact, with the announcement that no more recruiting is to be demanded, goes to indicate that the end of active hostilities is at hand.

The Storming of Fort Donelson.

The N Y World's army correspondent at Fort Donelson gives the following graphic description of the storming of that fort

"The task fell into able hands. Some imputations have before now been thrown upon Gen Smith's loyalty by malicious rivals, but yesterday did the General not only vindicate his loyalty, but his ability and skill to wield an army of soldiers—to wield them easily and to wield them well. His division was divided for the attack into two brigades, one under Col Cook including the 7th Illinois 12th Iowa, 13th Missouri, 50th Illinois, and 52d Indiana, the other under Col Lauman, with the 2d, 7th and 14th Iowa, 25th Indiana and 13th Missouri

Col Cook took the right of the attack, menacing the centre of the enemy's position Opposed to them were six Tennessee regiments, commanded by Cols Saggs, Bailey, Head Quarles, Brown and Coombs with the 2d Kentucky regiment Col Cook took his men straight up the side of the hill at the highest portion of the fortifications and the furtherest removed from the river The regiments went gallantly up the sides of the hill, and then encountered the barricade of felled timber and brushwood The enemy's infantry kept a rain of fire upon them A 32 pound gun in battery poured down grape and shell upon them, not, however, with very fatal effect The men stood it without flinching, the lines remaining unbroken In accordance with the plan of attack, it was decided that the brigade of Col Cook should engage the enemy on the right, while Lauman's brigade should make the entree into the works further on left He kept up an incessant fire of infantry, engaging the Tennesseeans, who were safely ensconced behind the earthworks On the right, however, lay an open space, up which climbed the brigade of Lauman. The 2d Iowa led the charge, followed by the rest in their order The sight was sublime On ward they sped, heedless of the bullets and balls of the enemy above The hill was so steep, the timber cleared, that the rebels had left a gap in their line of rifle pits on the crest of hill Through this gap they were bound to go Right up they went, climbing up on all fours, their line of dark blue clothing advancing regularly forward, the white line of smoke from the top of the works opposed by a line from our troops

They reach the top! Numbers fall! The suspense is breathless! See, they climb over the works! They fall—they are lost! Another group, and still another and another, close up the gap! All is covered with smoke! The lodgment is made—the troops swarm up the hill side, their bright bayonets glittering in the sun; The firing slackens What is more wonderful is, that Capt Stone's battery of rifled 10 pounders, close behind the brigade, is tugging up the hill, the horses plunging and riders whipping. Upward they go, where never vehicle went before, up the precipitous and clogged sides of the hill No sooner on the crest than the guns are unlimbered, the men at their posts, Percussion shells and canister are shot spitefully from the Parrot guns at the flying enemy The day is gained—a position is taken—the troops surround the guns, and the enemy has deserted his post The 34 pounder which had caused so much havoc is silenced by Col. Cook's brigade, and the rebels fly to the main fort in alarm. The day is gained! The foe is running! Cheers upon cheers rend the air, and in a few minutes all is hushed

In the midst of all this warm work there rode the white haired Gen Smith, his snowy moustache standing out like bristles, his hand waving majestically, his bearing erect and proud—and untouched by the deadly hail, and unmoved at the brilliant success Sure of his point, his batteries placed, the enemy's guns are turned upon them, and he ordered his reserve into line with all the coolness of a Hannibal. An offer comes to him of more troops. 'Thank you, gentlemen, I think we have already more than enough,' calmly replies the General, and in fifteen minutes the lines were disposed of for the night The loss to our forces was small compared to the amount of firing. Our loss in the storming of the works will not exceed 200 killed and wounded That of the enemy must have been at least that number, notwithstanding that they were entrenched behind breastworks

What followed may be told in a few words. The enemy seeing that we had gained one of his strongest positions, successfully repulsed him in his most daring attempts to raise the siege, took advantage of the darkness, called a council of war, in which it was determined to surrender With all the haste possible some 7,000 troops were dispatched up the river by night. The rebel Gens Floyd and Pillow made their escape The fort, with all its contents, fell into our hands More than 12,000 prisoners, two Brigadier Generals, Buckner and B K Johnson, with 20 colonels and other officers in proportion, 65 cannon 48 field and 17 siege, $1,500 000 in stores, provisions and equipages—a glorious result, purchased at comparatively small loss"

A Union man at Victoria wants to know how it is that so many of the immigrants to Cariboo are secessionists We can't account for it, except that chivalry may be seeking a country favorable to the intelligence of their natural proclivities—treason, poker, and niggers —Overland Press

Papers in Reference to the Disloyalty of Mr. Stark.

The substance of the testimony of Joseph Lane in the matter of the Hon. Benjamin Stark's right to a seat in the United States States Senate, given before the Committee on the Judiciary of the Senate, January 29th, 1862.

Mr. Lane, being duly sworn, testified substantially as follows: I never heard Mr. Stark say much; but during last June, between the 1st and 20th, I was in Portland, Oregon, when I heard Mr. Stark express himself that the southern States were right, and that the north should not coerce them. He was walking with Bishop Scott when I heard him, in conversation, say that his sympathies were with the South, and that they were in the right. I did not treasure his precise words. Mr. Stark lives in Portland. I make Portland my home. I have been there two years. Mr. Stark's reputation there was that he was in sympathy with secessionists. I never had any conversation with him, nor ever heard him express himself but this one time. It was between the 1st and 20th of June, 1861. Expressions of sympathy with the South were from those opposed to the administration. It was uncommon for remarks in favor of the south to be made after the war broke out. The secretary sent the governor word that he would not pay him if he held to the secession doctrine. The Union men were in the ascendancy. I never heard but one or two make such remarks as Mr. Stark made.

Cross-examination by Mr. Stark

I went to Oregon to sell rights, in August of 1859; I stayed there three weeks then, and went away; I went back there in October, 1859; I went there the first time to sell patent rights, and while there a Democrat, in talking with me, advised me to get a stud horse; I went away and got one, and sold half; the second time I went there my business was in stock; I did not come to Washington to testify against Mr. Stark, but when here some persons wished me to testify before the committee in Mr. Stark's case; Mr. Trumbull notified me to come before the committee; I came to Washington in a company of sharpshooters; I think the governor issued his proclamation, if he did, because he was compelled to do it; the governor issued bulletins against Union meetings being held; I heard a good deal of secession talk about the time the convention was held, and that Stark attended it; the object of convention was to unite the Douglas and Breckinridge Democrats, I understood; I don't know whether it was other than a political convention; I think the convention was opposed to the Union; a majority thought Oregon would go out of the Union; at that time the governor issued a bull against Union meetings; all of the State officers said they would stop the pay of the disunionists if they talked on as they were; resolutions of the convention were not so strong for the Union as the resolutions of the Republican meetings; others than Republicans addressed Union meetings—Judge Boyce was one; every Union meeting I know of was addressed by others than Republicans; Salem was regarded as the head quarters of the Democracy; some meetings were held about the 5th of June; I left in June; a meeting was held about the 1st of June; I was absent at the time; I was always a Republican; Mr. Stark challenged my vote, and I swore it in; I thought I had a right to vote; I had property in Oregon; it was stock; I had no land; I will not go back until the war is over; I own real estate in Wisconsin. The parties making affidavits against Mr. Stark are all Republicans and responsible men, as far as I know them; I know about two-thirds of them; they are citizens of Portland, and men of veracity.

Mr. Stark's communication in self-defence

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 17, 1862.

SIR:—I have had the honor to receive a communication from the Committee on the Judiciary of the Senate, under the date of the 15th instant, in which I am informed that there will be a meeting of that committee on Wednesday, the 22d instant, at 10.30 A. M., at which time my case will be considered; that any statement in writing I may be desirous of making to the committee will be received at that time, and that I can have access to the papers on file with the committee, together with copies of such as I may designate.

To the consideration of the committee I desire through you to submit the following statement:

My credentials are regular and authentic; I am of the lawful age to hold the office of United States Senator. These facts are unchallenged. In addition I beg to state that any time the Senate may be pleased to appoint I am ready to take the oath prescribed by the Constitution and laws of the United States, and enter upon the full discharge of the duties of my office.

As a Senator from Oregon, jealous of the rights of the State, I deem it to be my duty to submit that upon this statement alone I am entitled to be admitted to my seat, and that the Senate, under the Constitution, cannot withhold from me and my State this right. Confiding in this, that none is needed, I refrain from presenting any argument in favor of this view of my case. It is due to myself, however, that I should state that I have examined all the papers referred to by the committee, and that I find them, without a single exception, to emanate from my bitterest political opponents. Whilst I cannot undertake to recall all I may have said in private conversations during the past twelve months of earnest and often heated discussions of public affairs, I do most solemnly declare that in a forum competent to try and determine the issue I am able to prove the allegations against my loyalty to be utterly unfounded; that in many important particulars the declarations of my assailants are false; that in others my language has been perverted and wrested from its true intent; and that in every respect the papers referred to are calculated and were designed to sustain a theory founded upon an opinion alike unjust to my true sentiments and discreditable to the candor of my accusers.

From such evidence as these papers contain—of all the testimony invariably regarded as least entitled to weight—I appeal to my public declaration of opinions, contained in the following extracts from a letter written to a Democratic Union Mass Convention held in Lion county, Oregon, on the 5th of June last.

"It is too late now to stop and reason together upon the abstract question, can a State constitutionally secede? Nine States have already seceded. Others declare it to be their right, and in certain contingencies their intention to adopt the same mode for the redress of alleged grievances. Whether the grievances referred to are real or imaginary is immaterial to the issue now presented for the consideration of every one who sincerely desires the perpetuation of the government of the United States in its unity and integrity. * * * Civil war cannot avert disunion. * * * Subjugation cannot prolong the Union. To subjugate the South, were that even possible, would be the establishment of a military despotism. * * * Every Democrat in Oregon is true to the Union and the Constitution. * * * Let them (the Democracy) unfurl their banner to the breeze, inscribed with these watchwords of promise—the Constitution, peace, and equal rights to every section. Then * * * we may hope, at the ballot-box, to suppress anarchy, conquer disunion, and negotiate a glorious and perpetual reunion of the 'dissevered, discordant, and belligerent sections' of a hitherto proud and prosperous Union."

These were my opinions at that early day. Without essential modification they are my opinions now.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
BENJAMIN STARK.

Hon. LYMAN TRUMBULL,
Ch'n. of the Com. on the Judiciary.

Multnomah County Union Convention.

The freemen of Multnomah County who are willing to throw aside all previous political prejudices and party platforms, and sustain the Administration in suppressing armed rebellion, blotting out treason and preserving unimpaired the priceless inheritance of constitutional liberty, are hereby requested to meet in their several precincts at the usual place of voting, on Saturday the 19th inst., at one o'clock P. M., and elect Delegates to attend a Union County Convention to be holden at the Court-house in Portland on Saturday the 26th inst., at one o'clock P. M., to put in nomination a ticket for County Officers to be voted for at the coming election, composed of men whose political creed is Union first, Union last and Union forever.

The precincts are entitled, on the basis of the popular vote, to the following number of Delegates: North Portland, 19; South Portland, 21; St. John's, 1; Powell's Valley, 3; Multnomah, 2; Sandy, 2; Willamette, 2; Sauvie's Island, 2.

Per order of Committee. A. DUFUR, Ch'n.
Portland, April 5th, 1862.

A CARD.

I would say to my friends in the Willamette Valley, and to all who are afflicted with disease of the bronchial tubes and lungs, that Dr. J. Flattery will be in Portland about April 5th, and will be prepared to relieve and cure those who are thus afflicted. Dr. Flattery's system of inhalation has accomplished wonders. My condition was well known to many in Portland and the adjacent country, when I left Oregon in the Fall of '59. My friends supposed that I could not live long. Through this system of inhalation as prescribed by Dr. Flattery, I have so far recovered as to be able for many months to pursue my business with energy and satisfaction. I could also tell of persons here and in the Sacramento Valley who were considered incurable, who have by Dr. F.'s system, been restored to their friends and to the enjoyment of health. I say to the afflicted, try this new system and live.

H. S. PINE.

N. B.—The above card was not asked for by Dr. Flattery, nor does he know that it is written. It is prompted by gratitude and a regard for the afflicted.

H. S. P.

San Francisco, April 1, 1862. apr7dwlm

The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Ricord is an illustrious example, a shining light among the philosophical stars of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay has fully equalled him in this country; as a proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma, and the honorary ad eundem degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert, that he is now regarded as the LEADER in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in corresponding, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., San Francisco, Cal. Information of James B. Hughes Wanted.

JAMES B. HUGHES is supposed to have been a resident of Portland, Oregon. For about ten years past his friends in Michigan have not heard from him. A short time since it was understood by his friends in Michigan that he had died some time about the date of March, 1861, and that he left a large amount of property. In person he was a short and thick-set man, of dark complexion; sharp-featured, and by occupation a lumber-dealer and commission merchant, owning extensive lumber and flouring mills.—His present age, if he were living, would be about forty-one years. He went to California in 1849. His former residence was Chicago, Ill. It is supposed that he left a wife and two children, but that they are since deceased.

Should any citizen of Oregon or Washington Territory, or California, possess any knowledge of this James B. Hughes, and will communicate the same to the editor of this paper or the undersigned, a great favor will be conferred, which will be duly acknowledged.

N. H. FAIRCHILD,
Attorney-at-Law,

The Burning of the Willows.

A TALE OF THE REVOLUTION.

"This must be the house; the junction of the two roads and a break in front, the banks covered with willows. Order the men to dismount, with the exception of a couple patrols on each road."

The speaker was dressed in the blue and scarlet uniform of the British light horse, a corps that was formed after the landing of the English troops in New Jersey, as soon as horses could be obtained to mount the men. He was an officer of some rank, evidently, and his carriage and demeanor were both haughty and aristocratic in the highest degree. And why not? He was the eldest son of a British Earl.

"The house appears to be deserted, Colonel Harcourt," said the junior officer, as he dismounted from his horse.

"We will see. This way half a dozen of you," he said to his men. "Try the door yonder. If it is fastened break it open, and re[illegible] if any one is inside. If there should be, and they attempt to escape, shoot them down, but first give them warning to surrender."

The men advanced to the door, which they found to be fastened, and after demanding admission, to which they received no answer, they proceeded to break it open, which delayed them some time, for the door was a strong one. This done, they entered.

"Do you know the man by sight, lieutenant?" asked Col. Harcourt, while the men were busy ransacking the house.

"No, sir, but there is a fellow I picked up on the road, now in the rear, that knows him well. He does not appear to owe him much favor."

"Order him to the front."

The countryman had not a very prepossessing countenance. There was a bold surliness and cruel expression of features extremely displeasing about him.

"What is your name?" said Col. Harcourt in his quick military manner.

"John Classen."

"Do you know Peter Van Dyke?"

"Very well."

"Is this his dwelling?"

"Yes though since his mother's death and his sister's getting married, it is hard to say where he keeps himself."

"Does he bear the name of being a great rebel and being a dangerous man to those who favor the King in this neighborhood?"

"Yes, from the Passaic to the Hackensack and thirty miles around. If I'd had my way he'd been hung long ago, and his house burned over his head. He is the leader of every rebel gang from the army, and points out the honest farmer's homes who stand by their King, whose barns they plunder, and carry away their grain and cattle."

"Why, you tell a bitter tale about him. Has he ever injured you?"

"Injured me? He and a parcel of robbers like himself came one afternoon to burn my h[illegible], and hang me before my door, which they would have done but for the arrival of a few friendly neighbors, well armed, when they went off in double quick time."

"Does he not venture into New York sometimes in disguise?" inquired the Colonel.

"I have so heard it said. He has been slip[illegible] from a boy up, and can disguise himself [illegible]. He is a precious scamp, and you will do a favor to this part of Jersey if you [illegible] him as soon as you catch him."

This conversation had been held near a stone wall, on one side of which was an old garden; but the troubles of the times had [illegible]—the gooseberry and currant bushes had grown up rank and untrimmed, while the briars stretched over the wall [illegible] the ground from sight.

Under this cover, and within ten feet of the Colonel and Classen, lay crouched the very [illegible] of whom they were talking. He had barely time to escape from the house and conceal himself on the approach of the horsemen, [illegible] he did not then expect to be within ten miles of him.

Twice, on hearing the base lies of Classen, he was on the point of rising up and confronting him; but a little reflection was left, and he thought that was not the occasion to place [illegible] in jeopardy, which he certainly would do, since the party of troops had come expressly to take him.

"Do you know with any certainty, Classen, how long since Peter Van Dyke was in the neighborhood?"

"I heard that he was seen last night two miles from this, in a by-path through the woods, coming towards his house."

"This is the information I received, and I am determined to capture him sooner or later. If you can point out his whereabouts or arrest him yourself, you shall have a reward of fifty guineas."

Classen was as avaricious and fond of money as he was wicked. Fifty guineas was a large sum in[illegible] when gold was rarely seen.

"I'll catch him, Colonel, before he [illegible] three days older. I know one of his haunts."

"Why not lead us there, then?"

"It would be of no use this time of day. Besides, he will not be there for a day or two, and I shall have to be cautious in looking for him."

"Well, secure him, and the fifty guineas shall be yours."

Several of the soldiers now came from the house, and stated that they had searched the house from top to bottom, but could find no one, although from appearance some one had been there lately.

The Colonel, followed by Classen, passed on to the house, while the fugitive lay in his concealment.

It was a plain frame house of middling size, built partly of stone, in the old dutch style, and very comfortable within. There was but very little furniture—a few chairs, tables and cooking utensils. The better part, Classen said, had been taken away on the occasion of Van Dyke's sister's marriage, as her part.

"Here's a great coat, sir," said one of the soldiers, "that we found on the floor of the kitchen, near the back door. It must have been dropped by some one in a hurry."

"Feel if there are any papers in the pockets," said Col. Harcourt.

"Yes, sir, here is a bundle of them."

The Colonel took the package, looked at the superscription, broke the seal, and going to the window, commenced reading to himself with a countenance of surprise.

(To be concluded.)

Nothing, perhaps, strikes the ear more pleasantly than a pretty woman's charming voice—except, perhaps, her charming hand.

To make a girl love you, coax her to love somebody else. If there be anything that woman relishes, it is to be contrary.

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY'S

Private Medical & Surgical Institute,

SACRAMENTO STREET, BELOW MONTGOMERY,
Opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Company's Office, San Francisco.

ESTABLISHED IN 1854 FOR THE PERMANENT cure of all Chronic and Private Diseases and the SUPPRESSION OF QUACKERY. Attending and Resident Physician, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., Late in the Hungarian Revolutionary War, Chief Physician to the 20th Regiment of Honveds, Chief Surgeon to the Military Hospital of Pesth, Hungary, the late Lecturer on Diseases of the Genito-Urinary Organs, and Diseases of Women and Children, and Honorary Member of the Philadelphia College of Medicine.

☞ Particular attention paid to the treatment of diseases peculiar to Women and Children.

Office Hours—From 9 A. M. to 9 P. M.

☞ Communications strictly confidential. Permanent cure guaranteed, or no pay. Consultations by letter or otherwise, FREE.

Address, DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco.

Of all diseases, the first great cause,
Springs from neglect of Nature's laws.

To the Afflicted.

Suffer not when a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret disease—Self Abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages, Strictures, Gleet, Gravel, Diabetes, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Mercurial Rheumatism, Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles, diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Nose and Eyes, Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus Dance—and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs—such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision, with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Eruptions upon the Face, Pains in the Back and Head, Female Irregularities—and all improper discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, how long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines prescribed are pleasant without odor, entirely vegetable, causing no sickness and free from mercury or balsam. During fifteen years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have [illegible] from the jaws of death many thousands, who in the last stages of the above mentioned diseases had been given up to die by their physicians, which warrants me in promising to the afflicted, who may place themselves under my care, a speedy and permanent cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of consumption, scrofula and many other diseases, [illegible] the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected—a majority of cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure the disease but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which with the disease hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption. But should the disease and the treatment not cause death speedily, and the victim marries, the disease is entailed upon the children, who are born with feeble constitutions, and the current of life corrupted by a virus which betrays itself in scrofula, tetter, ulcers, eruptions and other affections of the skin, eyes, throat and lungs, entailing upon them a brief existence of suffering, and consigning them to an early grave.

Self-abuse is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the system—drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering, down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system, rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind, predisposed to consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of Self Abuse that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected, and with the abandonment of ruinous practices my patients can be restored to robust, vigorous health.

Irregularities and all diseases of males and females treated on principles established by fifteen years of practice, and sanctioned by thousands of the most remarkable cures.— Medicines with full directions sent to any part of the State, Oregon and Washington Territory, by patients communicating their symptoms by letter.

All business correspondence strictly confidential. Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, Sacramento street, below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s Office, San Francisco.

Remarkable Instance of Medical Relief

Below we publish the certificates of three of the sufferers, from the [illegible] of disease, who, having [illegible] their former health and [illegible] their cases and [illegible] authenticated by a Notary Public. [illegible] their perusal to the attention of all afflicted.

Certificate.—The undersigned [illegible] those who may be unfortunately [illegible] afflicted, where a permanent relief of their sufferings [illegible] obtained, feels it his duty to [illegible] publicly express his sincere gratitude to Dr. L. J. Czapkay for the [illegible] recovery of his health. Borne down by the distressing symptoms incident to the vicious practice of an onanism [illegible] in a [illegible] depressed in body and mind, unable to perform even the most trifling duty [illegible] ordinary avocations of life, I sought the advice of my physicians, who at first regarded my disease as of trifling importance—but alas! after a few weeks, and in some instances months, of their treatment, I [illegible] the horrors that no real relief [illegible] more alarming in their nature, and being told by [illegible] that my disease being principally confined to the brain, medicine would be of little consequence. I despaired of ever regaining my health, strength and energy; and as a last resort and with but a faint hope called upon Dr. Czapkay, who after examining my case, prescribed some medicine which almost instantly relieved me of the dull pains and dizziness in my head. Encouraged by this result, I resolved to place myself immediately under his care, and by a strict obedience to all his directions and advice, my health is now, in all my ideas collected. The constant pain in my back, and groins, the weakness of my limbs, the [illegible] of my whole body on the slightest alarm or excitement, the misanthropy and evil forebodings, the self-distrust and want of confidence in others, the incapability to study and want of resolution, the frightful exciting, and at times pleasurable [illegible] night followed by involuntary discharges [illegible] [illegible] and in fact in two months after having [illegible] [illegible] I felt as if inspired by a new life [illegible] but a short time ago I contemplated to end [illegible] hand. With the view to guard the unfortunate [illegible] the snares of incompetent quacks, I deem it [illegible] offer this testimony to the merit and skill of [illegible] and recommend him to all who may stand in [illegible] advice, being assured by my own experience [illegible] under his care a radical and permanent cure will [illegible]

CERTIFICATE.—Prompted by an honest [illegible] I wish to lay before the public a case which [illegible] mention not only as an act of scientific [illegible] humanity also. About two years ago, I [illegible] causes unknown to me, was seized with a [illegible] which owing to my inability to meet the [illegible] quent upon a thorough medical treatment, [illegible] agement which I met with on attempting [illegible] [illegible] (I was then led to believe) as to defy [illegible] physician. I was frequently, while in pursuit [illegible] thrown down to the ground without the [illegible] and subject to the agonies, I yet [illegible] miseries of my life and soon learned to look upon [illegible] would render assistance or shelter me from [illegible] this which ought to prolong the existence of [illegible] With in this state and having previous to [illegible] tasted the sweets of life, I once more [illegible] seeking aid of physician and by recommending [illegible] my Dr. L. J. Czapkay. I told him of my [illegible] and my inability to reward him for his [illegible] of which however he at once undertook my [illegible] the blessing of God I was once more restored [illegible] health. Unable to reward him for the boon [illegible] [illegible] I consider myself my indebtedness [illegible] due to myself and all afflicted, to make the case [illegible] that this is a medical advice may find [illegible] [illegible] in whom every confidence can be placed.
